DESCRIPTION OF THE TRIP

The Adrift Dinosaur five day Yampa River trip traverses 72 miles through Yampa, Whirlpool and Split Mountain Canyons. These 2,000 ft. deep sandstone gorges are a remote, pristine wilderness in the heart of Dinosaur National Monument. Since the canyons are road-less, we bring all food and gear on the rafts to undeveloped camps each night. Adrift provides transportation from the meeting place to the start of the river trip, and then back to the Adrift Dinosaur boathouse at the trip's end. Professional guides and all boating related equipment are provided, including one 110L watertight duffel bag per person to carry personal gear. All meals from the first day to last day lunch are included. No previous rafting experience is required. Minimum age is 6 years or 50 lbs.

You start your whitewater boating adventure in the remote northwestern part of Colorado about 55 miles west of Craig. Here the Yampa River, the last major free-flowing tributary of the Colorado River system, roars through a colorful canyon maze with canyon walls towering 2,000 feet above the river, containing rock strata spanning a geologic time period of 1.5 billion years. During spring and early summer when runoff from high mountains fills the channel, the Yampa provides over 40 intermediate (Class III) rapids along with one of the "Big Drops" in the west, Warm Springs Rapid. There are also numerous Class II rapids, as well as quiet stretches along the way. When the opportunity arises, we will stop for side canyon hikes.

Depending on the size of your trip and water levels, there may be three different boating options to choose from, you can stay with one type the entire trip or switch throughout the expedition. Choose between a paddle raft where you grab a paddle, and with the assistance of a guide who sits in the back to steer, you'll assist in maneuvering the boat through the rapids as a team (small trips may not have enough people for a paddle raft); or select an oar powered raft where you just sit back and let the guide do all the work. Another option is to run the river "on your own" in an inflatable kayak with support rafts nearby. These inflatable kayaks are provided on certain trips and they are shared by all interested participants. Kayakers must follow the guidance and rules of the Adrift crew and stay close to the support rafts. It is ultimately the decisions of the Adrift Dinosaur staff whether or not the kayaks can run certain rapids. Adherence to all instructions provided by your Trip Leader and Guides is mandatory throughout the trip's duration.

Keep in mind that this is a wilderness rafting trip. You will be active during the day and should be in good physical condition. Being in good condition will help you enjoy the trip even more.

GRATUITIES

Our guides work hard to provide you with the best possible river trip. If you feel their service has been extraordinary, we recommend a standard service industry gratuity of 20% of your bill for the trip. This can be given to the Trip Leader who will then distribute it equally among the crew. As with all tipping this is optional and solely at your discretion.

WHAT TO BRING

Space on rafts is limited so don't bring any unnecessary items. However, your rafting vacation should be a comfortable and enjoyable one, not an ordeal. The items we recommend bringing come from years of suggestions from both guests and guides. Bring comfortable loose fitting clothes that can get wet. Cotton is not the clothing of choice on a wet day; we prefer synthetic materials such as fleece and polypropylene. Please limit your gear to about 30 pounds.

NO GLASS BOTTLES, please. We advise buying beverages in cans or transfer to plastic bottles if you bring wine or liquor. Eating utensils and plates are provided. Excess travel baggage should be stored in your vehicle or with your motel.

Please do not bring electronic games on the trip, as they greatly distract other children and yours from appreciating the natural beauty of the canyons. Camp chairs are provided, please do not bring your own.

Tents, sleeping bags and pads are NOT provided, but can be rented (bag and pad $50; and up to a six person tent $50) at the Adrift store. If renting, notification is needed at least three weeks prior to the launch.

"WHAT DO I WEAR ON THE RAFTS IN THE REGULAR SEASON?"

Daytime temperatures in the regular season (mid-June, July and August) are often in the 90's, but the weather can be much cooler. Additionally, a brief rain shower and rapid splashes can quickly cool you off. So bring some warm clothes, and dress in layers that can be taken off readily. While on rafts most people wear shorts and/or swimsuit, a t-shirt, river sandals or tennis shoes, and sun screen/block, with a light sweater, rain jacket and rain pants readily available in the day bag. We recommend bringing a sturdy waterproof rain jacket. If you wear long pants for sun protection we recommend a fast drying fabric like nylon. We advise against cotton blue jeans because they stay wet and cold all day. Another good option for cool days is a long sleeve polypropylene shirt top.

Visit cascaderivergear.com for excellent tips and shopping for hard to find items.

PACKING FOR YOUR TRIP

To make packing easier for you, we encourage you to stop by the Adrift warehouse before 6 pm the day prior to launch and pick up a waterproof bag and any rental gear. You can also request we drop off your dry bag at your preferred motel. Dry bag drop off time is between 5-7 pm. Please add this request to your Passenger Profile or call our office directly. This will allow you to leisurely and carefully pack the night before we meet you. Note the unique name on your personal bag so you can identify it later. Each person is given a waterproof duffel bag. All of your personal items, such as sleeping bag and clothes, must fit in your personal bag, except for large tents for which we have a separate "tent bag." Once packed, personal bags are given to guides at the launch site and after each breakfast and are not accessible until camp. Adrift Dinosaur is not responsible for articles that get wet or broken.

Items which you will need during the day should go into a large waterproof duffel bag, called the "day bag," which is available on each raft. If you want more immediate access to personal gear, consider purchasing a small waterproof bag at the Adrift store or bringing your own. Make sure you can properly close your personal bag or it will leak. Carry beverages, water bottle with locking carabiner and special food items to the launch site and a guide will store them for you.

The night before the trip, set aside what you'll be wearing on the river the next morning. Take time to pack everything on the Personal Gear Checklist. Pack all items for camp in your "personal bag." Place the items you'll want to go in the "day bag" in a small backpack, a plastic bag, or in a small waterproof bag. Items which we recommend being placed in the "day bag" include; sunscreen, camera (carry at your own risk), raingear, extra shirt (polypro), light sweater, binoculars and river guide or books.

- All trips are non-refundable.

FULL REFUND EXPECTATIONS

Adrift reserves the right to cancel any trip due to river or weather conditions or the lack of sufficient reservations up to 14 days in advance for multi-day trips. If we cannot operate the trip you signed up for, we will work with you to find an alternate option if possible. We understand that your vacation is essential, and we strive to make it as easy and memorable as possible.

TRANSFER FEE

Guests can transfer from one trip to another during the same season before full payment is made on March 1st.

DEPOSIT & PAYMENT TERMS

Please visit NPS at <https://www.nps.gov/dino/planyourvisit/fees.htm> to purchase a park pass if you do not already have one. NPS requires that all guests rafting with us have one of these passes with them and available while on a river rafting trip.

RESPONSIBILITY

Although Adrift makes every effort to ensure a safe trip and we have an excellent safety record, whitewater boating, hiking and wilderness travel involve some risks. Physical challenges and risks are inherent in rafting and are the reason why people seek this kind of adventure. You elect to participate in these activities at your own risk. Adrift Dinosaur and its agents are not responsible for injuries to participants, personal gear that gets wet or broken, cars parked on our property, or for travel delays. Trip and/or medical insurance is recommended, check with your travel agent. You must be in good health. All participants are required to sign an acknowledgment of risk prior to departure. Each participant must complete a Passenger Profile Form and return it to Adrift at least 3 weeks prior to departure. All passengers must complete the passenger profile entirely, including details of any reserved rentals reserved at the time of booking. Accurate information regarding each guest's weight, height, medical conditions, allergies, rental requirements, and dietary considerations is required in the profile.

EXPEDITION MENTALITY

We cannot express this enough, this event takes place in a protected national monument with serious consequences and challenges. Failure to understand and act accordingly will jeopardize your safety, the safety of the guests, and our ability to continue these expeditions. In most cases the only way out in case of an injury or emergency is a $20,000 helicopter ride! This is an expedition, not a party. While there will be plenty of time to relax during dinner and share a cold beverage, we are in a pristine, remote backcountry setting with strict National Park Service safety protocols. Drinking on the river during the day is not permitted. Drugs are not permitted. The Park Service recommends no alcohol at all. Our experienced guides are 100% in charge of everyone's safety and it takes cooperation and assistance from everyone to ensure safe passage - expedition mentality!

MEDICAL INFORMATION

River trips can be strenuous for some persons and they are located in remote areas a long distance from medical facilities. It may be necessary for some people to check with their doctor about going on the trip. Our guides are trained in First Aid and CPR. It is imperative that Adrift be notified prior to your river trip regarding any personal health concerns, including but not limited to diabetes, special medications, allergic reactions to insects, environment and food, or any other condition including physically that may impact your ability to participate in the river trip. All pertinent information can be provided on your Passenger Profile form.

GENERAL INFO

AT THE PUT-IN

The “put-in” is river language for the launch site. Here you’ll meet the other guides. This is a very busy place with other groups launching. Once you’ve accounted for your personal bag and placed it near the boats, sit back and relax. Next, the trip leader will give an orientation on safety and trip policies.

PERSONAL FLOTATION DEVICE & HELMETS

Personal Flotation Device (or PFD’s) are the most important safety factor on your trip, and MUST BE WORN AND BUCKLED AT ALL TIMES WHILE ON THE RIVER. They are provided to you by Adrift, personal PFD’s are not allowed. This is a strictly enforced company policy and park regulation. For your safety, PFD’s should fit tightly so it will support you in the water. A loose jacket may even come off in the river. Be sure an Adrift guide checks the fit of your PFD. Keep track of your PFD at all times and note the unique number on it. It’s your “friend.” Since river currents are often swift, children must wear a PFD while playing in or near the river, and PFD’s must be worn by everyone while swimming.

Individual helmets are provided and fitted to each guest. Your name will be affixed to your helmet, and you will be required to wear the helmet throughout your river adventure as requested by your

PERSONAL SAFETY AND HYGIENE

You should be extra safety-minded on this trip because you are a long ways from hospitals, doctors and pain medicine. In the interest of your safety and others on the trip we ask that you consider the following:

WASH YOUR HANDS- ALWAYS

Wash your hands before every meal, before entering the kitchen, and after using the toilet. Bacteria can spread rapidly through a group if you do not wash your hands. A hand wash station with soap is provided at each meal and camp.

USE THE TOILETS

At camp and during the day a portable human waste toilet is provided. When at camp the toilet or “groover” is set up in a private spot to allow depositing only feces and toilet paper (Hygiene products get disposed of in trash near groover). Please do not urinate into the toilet, or drop foreign objects, such as applicators, food or packaging into it. Since there is only one toilet, please use the facility quickly. For your safety and others on the trip, and to protect park resources, please use our toilets. If you must go “Number 2” during the day outside camp, we have a “day groover” with all the necessary items. Ask a guide for directions.

PLEASE URINATE INTO THE RIVER, or into a separate pee or “sunshine bucket” near the toilet, but NOT INTO THE TOILET. It is very important not to urinate in the toilet, around camp or behind rocks for three reasons. One, research has shown that urinating into the river is the safest method of disposal because urine is usually sterile and decomposes rapidly in moving water. Two, urinating in the toilet creates so much volume that the toilet becomes too heavy to carry out. Three, low rainfall does not “wash away” urine and camping areas can begin to smell.

HELP IN THE KITCHEN

New state health regulations do not allow guests to assist the guides in preparing meals. So just enjoy your free time. But please wash your own dishes and utensils, and if you wish, you can help guides with washing pots, etc.

SUNBURN

Sunburn is a BIG health concern, because it can make your trip miserable. It is very easy to quickly get a burn at this altitude and dry climate. Keep covered with sunblock, hat and/or clothes. WEAR SHOES- Walking around at camp without shoes can be hazardous because there are sharp rocks, cactus and sticks. The most common injury on a river trip, and one subject to infection, is a foot injury.

DEHYDRATION

Drink a lot of water, much more than you would at home. Dehydration is a subtle but very common problem on desert river trips. This is because of the low humidity and your elevated activity levels. Signs of dehydration are few urinations, afternoon headaches and lethargy. You'll be moody and unhappy if you get dehydrated. Drinking alcohol can promote dehydration.

NEVER DIVE INTO THE RIVER

You can often not tell the depth of the river, so never dive head first. Avoid a serious neck injury.

ALCOHOL

If you wish to drink, do so in moderation.

WATER FIGHTS

Water fights can be fun, but they can also result in injuries. They can quickly become violent and dangerous. Therefore, we discourage wild water fights, and jumping from boat to boat is not allowed at any time. Please respect others who desire to stay dry and peaceful.

Keep in mind that this is a wilderness river trip. You will be active during the day and should be in good physical condition. Good conditioning helps you enjoy your river trip even more. You must be able to act in your own self-rescue if needed. Each trip is equipped with an inReach device for communication with Adrift Base, the National Park Service (NPS), and Emergency Dispatch.

HELP US PROTECT THE RESOURCES ENCOUNTERED ON YOUR ADVENTURE

You will be traveling in a spectacular, but fragile national park. This is a protected area, and as such we try very hard to minimize adverse impacts to park resources. Help us make our programs responsible and sustainable travel. Prior to the launch Adrift guides will give you more detailed information and techniques for keeping impacts to a minimum. But here are a few things to consider before you arrive.

1. Off-trail hiking can cause erosion, and it can take up to 50 years for fragile desert soil coverings to fully recuperate. So please stay on existing trails.
2. The Indian rock art can be easily damaged. Touching the rock leaves a film of oil on them, which speeds up the deterioration process. So, please do not touch or chalk rock art.
3. A substantial number of other people may use your campsite after you leave. With this level of use the proper disposal of human wastes is very important. So please use our sanitary toilet system for carrying out human waste. Urinate into the river (see Hygiene section).
4. Adrift is proud of our efforts to recycle and conserve materials we use on the trip. Please help us in these activities.
5. Make sure your children and other members of your group do not remove anything from the park. Removal of things like fossils or Indian artifacts not only is against the law and subject to a large fine, but a loss to everyone.
6. You may be visiting historic structures, such as cabins and Indian granaries. These are very fragile, so do not touch, walk inside or lean against them.
7. Resist the temptation to get close to bighorn sheep and other wildlife, as this places additional stress on the animals and they may be injured.

THINK FUN, SAFETY, HYGIENE, COURTESY, AND MINIMAL IMPACT TO THE MONUMENT

THANKS!
